Strategy & Tactics Magazine Issue 287 July August 2014

IN THIS ISSUE: Goeben, 1914 puts you in command of the SMS Goeben, the German battlecruiser that made a historically epic voyage through the Mediterranean during the opening days of World War One. This is a solitaire game in which the player must accomplish a specific "objective" to win the game, which will be generated at random at the start of the scenario. The player must manage the various outfittings and functions of the SMS Goeben and its escorting light cruiser, the SMS Breslau. As you fight your way through the Mediterranean, you will encounter various Allied warships, merchantmen for raiding, and unexpected opportunities and objectives. These are represented by "Incident" chits. German ships in the game are shown in detail. Allied ships are shown in a more abstract way because you, the player, are seeing the situation from the standpoint of Admiral Souchon, the fleet commander of the German Mediterranean Division. The possibility of running into enemy warships will be increased via the "Alert Level", which represents how much the Royal Navy's Admiralty is concentrating its resources against your task force. The game can be played with two players, one in command of the Goeben, the other in command of the Breslau. Each game turn represents about one day, and each sea spaces are approximately 100 miles apart. Most warship counters represent one ship each, although some counters represent flotillas, such as destroyer and convoy chits. Components: One 22" x 34" map & 176 counters Other Articles: Seirra Leone Civil War: a military analysis of the civil war that tore apart this west African nation from 1991 to 2002. The Battle of Sluys: The Anglo-French naval battle of 1346 that kicked off the 100 Years War. Jan Sobieski & the Siege of Vienna: the story of this Polish king's 1683 triumph over the besieging Turks at the city of Vienna. Alamo to Appomattox: analysis of the evolution of US military strategy and tactics from 1836 to 1865.
