This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1849 edition. Excerpt: ...records of an official tour through the State, speaks of great numbers of churches fallen absolutely into ruin, from the gradual impoverishment of surrounding estates, and the consequent dispersion of the population. Pope's Creek Church, where General Washington was baptized, fell into such complete decay, that it was a resort for beasts and birds. It was set on fire a few years ago, lest the falling in of the roof should kill the cattle, accustomed to seek shade and shelter there. Yet in view of these facts, statesmen, for temporary purposes, are willing to spread over the rich prairies of Texas, this devastating system, to devour, like the locusts of Egypt, every green thing in its path. And while we are thus wilfully perpetuating and extending this terrible evil, priests and politicians are not ashamed to say that it must be so, because the system was entailed upon us by " the avarice of our ancestral government." Would any other evil, any evil which we ourselves did not choose, be tolerated among us, because it was a legacy from Great Britain? I never hear this weak apology offered, without thinking of the answer made to it by the eloquent George Thompson: "Yes, charge the guilt upon England; but, as you have copied England in her sin, copy her in her repentance." J LETTER XVII. June 24, 1844. At a second-hand book-stall, I picked up a volume of Tieck, and saw in it the name of Leopold Sturm-vogel. It excited deep melancholy within me, as it does to see a portrait in an auction room. I knew the hand-writing well; and a host of recollections, pleasant and painful, were twined round that name, which lay there, like obsolete hieroglyphics, among the literary rubbish. Leopold was from the Black Forest of Germany, and had a...
