Things I Have to Tell You: Poems and Writing by Teenage Girls (Betsy Franco Young Adult)

Things I Have to Tell You: Poems and Writing by Teenage Girls (Betsy Franco Young Adult)

Teenage girls tell their own stories—in compelling poetry and prose paired with 42 striking black-and-white photographs.

The voices in this collection have so much to question, so much to grieve. They have so much to celebrate, so much to rage against. They're ready to speak up and begin the conversation — with you and with the world. More than thirty uncensored poems are accompanied by Nina Nickles's masterful photographs, which sensitively capture the moods and essence of adolescence. Here, painted in the words of teenage girls, is a portrait of their dreams and desires - a record of hope, disillusionment, anger, joy, sadness, and most of all, strength.

William Powers:

As a pupil exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher requested them to go to the library or even make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their hobby. They just do what the educator want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that looking at is not important, boring and also can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for you personally. As we know that on this era, many ways to get whatever we really wish for. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this Things I Have to Tell You: Poems and Writing by Teenage Girls (Betsy
